Annual Book Swap Set for April 16th

As the last of the frigid winter weather receded in mid-March, the Library began accepting books and media for the Library's Spring Book Swap. In its fourteenth year, the book swap will be held during National Library Week which is a week sponsored by the American Library Association to celebrate the unique role that libraries play in helping individuals to locate and organize information.

On April 16, the Library staff will display all the materials that have been donated in the Lobby of the Conference Center in Building 549. Starting at 10:00 am, anyone who has received a credit can browse the items, make selections, and redeem their credits. All items are claimed on a first-come, first-served basis. The Library staff looks forward to coordinating this event where books find new life, which is a lot like the earth's spring renewal, and hopefully warmer, sunnier days ahead.

Spring Research Festival

The staff of the Scientific Library will once again participate in the annual Spring Research Festival on Wednesday, May 7, and Thursday, May 8. This is the 18th year for this event, which is now sponsored by the National Interagency Confederation for Biological Research (NICBR).

The 2014 theme is "The Microbiome: Impact on Health & Disease." More information about this unique theme is available at <http://ncifrederick.cancer.gov/Events/Srf/Content/2014/Default.aspx>.

We will host a table on both days, 10:00 a.m. – 2:30 p.m., in the tent behind the Odom Fitness Center on Porter Street. We invite you to visit us during the Festival to see what we have to offer.

New Computers Available for Use

Faster computers, with large flat screen monitors for optimal viewing, are now available for use on the second floor of the ATRF, at the ATRF Library. The computers are fully loaded with Windows 7, and provide quick links to the Library website, online catalog, online journals, and online books, as well as immediate access to PubMed, Web of Science, NIH WebMail, and other recommended websites and programs. Headphones are provided in case you need to take an online seminar, and the print station stands ready to generate hard copies of the digital documents you create. If you are temporarily without access to your own computer, or if you want to get away from the cube for a while, but still want to get something done, stop by anytime Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., scan yourself into one of these computers using your Library barcode, or using one of the generic barcodes provided, get down to business, and let us know what you think of our new computing environment.
